[2] Definition and conditions of TBW (Terabytes Written) are based on JEDEC standard

[3] Transmission speed will vary according to different hardware/software conditions, therefore the data can only use for basic reference.

[4] There is high-power heat generated by the high transmission rate of Gen5 NVMe SSDs. To avoid the speed reduction caused by over heat, we suggest that Gen5 NVMe SSDs be used with additional heat sinks or even cooling fans. Team Group Inc. also provides liquid coolers, SSD fans and other related products for users, aimed at offering experiences of the best performance. If the Gen5 NVMe SSDs are not used with the heat sinks or coolers tested by labs of Team Group Inc, they may be malfunctioned or even damaged.

[5] It is advised that power supplies of above 850W are used with Gen5 NVMe SSD to ensure power stability of the motherboard system.

[6] As tested by T-FORCE Lab, the highest performance may differ when using AMD/Intel CPU.

[7] Team Group Inc keeps developing cooling solutions and cooperating with the motherboard manufacturers, such like the application to laptops or console games, always focusing on develop better solutions.
